Pittsburg Operators Refuse To Accept Cleveland Terms

Decision Made Known in Reply to Request of District 5 for Conference.

AGREEMENT IS SIGNED

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—The Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association, which yesterday was invited by the United Mine Workers of District 5 to meet with the officers of that district in an effort to adjust the coal strike under the wage scale adopted in Cleveland, today declined to accept the terms of the Cleveland conference.

Announcement of the producers' association came after a long meeting of the scale committee which considered the invitation from Mr. Fagan. It was in the form of a letter addressed to Mr. Fagan, which said:

"Your telegram of August 16 requesting the operators of the Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association to meet with your representatives to negotiate a wage agreement in conformity with the so-called basic agreement negotiated by rump convention in Cleveland Tuesday last, received.

"In reply we desire to inform you that we will not meet with your representatives to negotiate a wage scale on such a basis.

"The operators of the association, as they have heretofore several times notified you, are still ready and willing to negotiate with your district organization a wage scale without the check-off."

It was also announced that the four mines opened by members of the organization in Washington county were being operated "according to program." Pennsylvania cavalrymen are on duty in the vicinity of these mines.

The association represented about [illegible]0 per cent of the 45,000,000 tons annually produced in this district.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—Immediate resumption of coal production in bituminous mines scattered over seven states was ordered last night and in some places the cutting of coal was to be started today.

Orders for miners to return to work were sent by district union officials after operators had signed an agreement renewing the wage contracts that were in force when the men quit the mines last March 31.

The formal break in the strike came at 3:10 P. M., when the scale agreement was adopted by unanimous vote of miners and operators at their joint conference. The general agreement then was signed by T. K. Maher, of Cleveland, an operator as chairman of the conference, and William Green, a miner, as its secretary. Supplemental agreements between operators and state union officials were then executed with the union chiefs wiring local unions that work might be renewed.

President John L. Lewis, of the miners, said that operators controlling an annual output of approximately [illegible],000,000 tons had signed the agreement. Their mines, he said, were in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Oklahoma and Washington.

James Paisley, one of the big operators signing the agreement, announced that his mines in Charleston, Fairmont, Elm Grove, and Morgantown, W. Va., Valley Camp and Monongahela City, Pa., and Lafferty and Stuartsville, O., would be opened today.

Plans for extending the break of the strike also were laid by the union men.

Frank Farrington, the Illinois miners' president, announced that he would ask the Illinois operators to meet the union's district scale committee at Chicago on Friday.

John Hessler, head of the Indiana miners, also asked the Indiana operators to join in a scale conference at Terre Haute on the same day.

Mr. Lewis and other union officials remained to conclude conferences with operators, but most of the miners' officials left last night for their homes to seek negotiations with the operators there. The anthracite conference set for today was postponed until Thursday. It will be held at Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania Coal Operators Oppose "Fair Price" Plan

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—Seven regional committees will handle the bituminous coal distribution in conjunction with the Pennsylvania fuel commission, it was decided Tuesday at a meeting of the bituminous division of the fuel commission. The fuel commission served notice on the operators that a fair price would be established as soon as bituminous production reached such a quantity that the state could act.

The operators were unanimously against the establishment of a fair price and a lengthy discussion took place on this feature. The regional committee will have in addition to the local appointees to be announced later this week a joint representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Pennsylvania Fuel commission and a representative of the coal carriers to act with them.

The regional committees will be known as: Central Pennsylvania, Westmoreland county, Fayette and Greene counties, Connellsville, Somerset county, Northwestern Pennsylvania and Washington and Allegheny counties. These committees will handle the priority requests for coal in their respective districts and arrange for the distribution of cars through the state commission. Plans for sending large common pools of coal to the various districts for distribution in emergencies were also discussed.

The advisory committee elected Pemberton S. Hutchinson, Philadelphia, as its chairman.

"Shufflin'" Phil Douglas Barred From Baseball

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—"Shufflin'" Phil Douglas has been placed permanently on the list of ineligible players by the New York National League Baseball Club for writing a letter to a member of a competing team offering to desert his club if the team would "make it worth while." This statement was made by officials of the club here this afternoon.

The club was commended by President John A. Heydler who said it had taken this stand without regard to any influence it might have on the pennant chances.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 16.—George P. Graham, minister of militia and defense today ordered a detachment of several hundred troops sent to Glace Bay, N. S., coal mining district to quell disturbances resulting from the strike of United Mine Workers of America.

Minor clashes between strikers and volunteer workers have been frequent since the walkout 36 hours ago, officials reported, in requesting the troops.

INDIAN CREEK WATER POLLUTED, ENGINEERS SAY

State Has Already Ordered That Company Erect Filtration Plant.

GERMICIDE ALSO IS USED

Experts, Testifying for Defense, Propose That Impounding Basin Be Constructed to Collect Mine Drainage and That It Be Treated There.

Further evidence that the water from Indian Creek and supplied through the mains of the Mountain Water Supply Company is polluted and should be filtered was given today in the hearing of the equity action of the water company and others against mine owners in court in Uniontown.

The witnesses were George W. Fuller and Leonard Metcalf, both of Massachusetts, retained [illegible] the foremost hydraulic engineers of the country.

Mr. Fuller said the stream is not acid yet and may not be for a number of years at the present rate of coal development. He estimated 10 to 20 years.

Construction of an impounding reservoir in which water from mines could be drained and treatment of the acid water there was suggested by the engineers.

Pollution referred to other than mine drainage come from habitation along the valley the witnesses testified.

Representatives of the State Department of Health, testifying in the Indian creek water litigation before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen declared Tuesday that the waters of Indian creek had been polluted for years and that the department had already ordered the water filtered before being distributed for domestic use.

H. P. Drake, district engineer for the department of health admitted on cross examination that the department had little concern for preserving the fresh streams of the State. He said they were interested in proper filtration. Questioning him regarding the importance of pure water for domestic use, he was asked if he would personally relish a drink of water from that stone creek. "If properly treated yes," he readily replied.

Mr. Drake testified he visited Indian creek as late as two weeks ago and that he observed evidence of direct contamination. A kind which, he replied, "[illegible]." Mr. Drake described the habitation of Indian creek, saying that pollution was inevitable under conditions as exist in the Indian Creek Valley. He was asked concerning numerous other water supplies. In practically all of these he said there was a tendency to acidity coming from the mines and the plate mills in the vicinity of the streams. He advised a rapid filtration plant at Indian creek dam. He said the State of Pennsylvania was requiring recently as an additional precaution to filtration a germicidal treatment of the water.

John N. Chester, a hydraulic engineer of Pittsburg, testified concerning an analysis of the water of Indian creek saying that he found it contaminated. He also testified concerning other streams where [illegible] water supply for domestic use. In most of the cases cited the streams were contaminated but the State Department of Health requires them to filter the water.

In view of the [illegible] either side of the range [illegible] that the water [illegible]. Another remedy for the present condition at Indian Creek would be the construction of a large basin into which all the waste from the mines could be drained instead of emptying into Indian creek as at present. Construction of the basin together with the lines it was estimated would involve an expenditure of $773,000.

Girl Feigns Sleep as Burglar Searches Room for Valuables

Several homes on the South Side were visited by burglars at an early hour this morning. That of S. S. Marsteller on Race street was entered, the intruder making his escape with a pair of Mr. Marsteller's trousers, containing $75, taken from his bedroom, and his hat which was in the hall. Fayette Region Coal Men Will Fight to End

Announcement was made this afternoon that coal operators of Fayette county will not recognize the union agreement signed at Cleveland yesterday. It was said, the mine owners of the region are practically a unit in this agreement. "We will never recognize the union," said a leading operator, speaking for others.

The information was being sent out today that unless striking miners speedily return to work there will be wholesale evictions and importation of men to fill the places of those discharged from the service.

At the same time it was made known that the coal and coke companies will go as far as possible dispensing with Slavish labor. Slavish organization, and Slavic individuals are blamed for much of the trouble that has been brought on the operators, and they will be employed only [illegible] it was said.

Decision Reached at Conference With Senator Lodge, Today.

The hour had not been decided today.

WASHINGTON THINKS END OF COAL STRIKE HAS BEGUN AT LAST

That Is Official View of Partial Settlement Made at Cleveland.

HOOVER ADMITS FAILURE

Of His Voluntary Price Control Plan; Will Probably Ask Congress to Give Him Power to Make It Effective; Has Not Yet Been Asked to Resign.

BY GEORGE H. CUSHING.
Special Correspondent of The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Cleveland conference is given considerable significance—more in fact than, at the minute, is warranted. Precisely what happened at Cleveland is that the coal conference broke up over the refusal of Lewis to arbitrate. The Pittsburg Vein Operators Association, as such, withdrew from the conference. Mr. Gallagher pulled out and with him went all of the larger interests except the Cambrian Collieries, the Lorain Coal & Dock and those controlled by T. K. Maher.

The conference then reorganized with Maher as chairman. This conference agreed to the extension of the old scale to a "fact finding body." This body will have no powers of arbitration.

T. H. Watkins, an operator of the Clearfield district of Pennsylvania, signed up on the same scale. But the Clearfield district did not sign.

Some other individual operators signed up. No district has signed.

Frank Farrington said he was going home to Illinois to sign up his operators. He did not say on what basis. Private advices from Chicago are that the Illinois operators will sign with or without arbitration.

Indiana miners and operators start on a conference tomorrow. It is uncertain what it is going to result in. Pittsburg merely stands pat.

The forces in Washington which have been praying for a settlement said last night that this means the beginning of the end of the strike. The wish is father of the thought.

Today, I am far from sure that their hopeful prophecies are correct. Usually it has happened that when one group signs up, the whole industry is stampeded into an agreement. Usually, the scale of one becomes the scale of all. But, today, the suspicion is that there is a very large Ethiopian in this settlement. Tomorrow may bring him to daylight. When he appears, it is expected that another first-class sensation will develop and, then the row may start again.

The next paragraph will kill another sensation which was about ready to be sprung in some of the newspapers.

I am reliably informed that Herbert Hoover does not intend to resign from the cabinet. I am informed on equal authority that he is not going to be asked to resign.

Mr. Hoover admitted in a conference with reporters that his price control program is a failure and that he will be inclined to ask Congress for the power to fix prices and to control the distribution of coal.

When this message was carried to Capitol Hill, Senator Reed dug up the records of his investigation into the conduct of the Fuel Administration by Dr. Garfield and began to write his speech.

What broke the Hoover price program was the action of the operators of Western Pennsylvania when they refused to abide by the price of $3.50 and started the other operators to demanding more. The last straw came today when one delegation of West Virginia operators arrived to ask for more money and when it was announced that still another delegation will be here tomorrow.

That leaves in the agreement only the Pocahontas district of West Virginia. And it is understood, the Pocahontas operators will consider themselves released from their pledge when Mr. Hoover admits that his scheme is inoperative, or when the President goes to Congress to suggest legislative control of prices.

It probably was the break-up of the price scheme and the failure of the labor negotiations which led to the report of Mr. Hoover's resignation. It took less than half a minute for Mr. Hoover's friends to deny both his voluntary resignation and his retirement on pointed suggestion.

Note these New Prices on U.S. Tires

ON July 29, 1922, the lowest prices ever quoted on U. S. Passenger Car Tires went into effect—Royal Cords included.

These new prices should give confidence to dealers and car-owners that no lower basis of quality tire prices will prevail.

Bear in mind that these prices apply to the most complete line of quality tires in the world. Remember, too—as you read the following table—that U. S. quality has been positively maintained.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, AUG. 16, 1922.

OUR ANNUAL OUTING.

Although the date of the American Legion Community Picnic is almost three weeks in advance it is not too early for all the people of Connellsville and vicinity to begin making plans for taking part in this outing or playday.

Coming on a legal holiday there should be nothing to prevent an observance of it by everybody. The stores will be closed according to custom at that time and proprietors and clerks, with their families, will have an opportunity to get out in the open for a day. Labor operations will be suspended which will afford workers in all lines precisely the same privilege to join with their neighbors in relief from the daily grind.

Designed and planned essentially as a community affair, to participate in which everybody is invited, the day ought to be made an occasion for a more complete coming together of the people than occurs at any other time in the year.

The picnic is not a Legion undertaking except to the extent that this organization of former service men from this section have taken upon themselves the very considerable task of arranging the details and carrying them through to success. They, therefore, deserve to receive the very cordial and hearty support of every person who has the desire to assist in providing one day in the year when we can lay all cares aside and obtain that relaxation which a community picnic affords.

There will be nothing stiff or formal about it. Families will be asked to pack lunch baskets of generous proportions, and go to Oakford Park with the intention of having as much enjoyment and fun out of the day as it is possible to secure. Every facility to that end will be provided and it is certain that the only persons who will not have occasion to pleasantly remember the day will be those who do not join the ranks of the picnickers.

You will not wish to be of this number. That you may not you had better begin now to complete your plans for making this year's picnic quite the biggest and best yet held under the auspices of the Legion.

PROTECTION OF PAVED STREETS.

In the inquiry the police department has been directed to conduct with reference to the hauling of heavily laden coal trucks over the streets, and Race street in particular, it might not be amiss to secure some data on the speed with which these vehicles are driven. Careful investigation would doubtless show that the damage being done to the paving is more the result of the rate at which the heavy loads travel over the streets than from the gross weight of the burden to which they are subjected.

These streets were not constructed to sustain the impact resulting from a car of 24,000 pounds net weight, carrying four or five tons of coal, or a total weight of more than 17 tons, when traveling at a high rate of speed. Such traffic, if long continued, would grind much more substantially built highways to pieces. Against it the light construction of the streets in the residence sections have no show at all if something is not done to reduce both the gross weight of loads and the rate at which they are driven. There may be no legal right to close these street to this class of traffic but some way will doubtless be found to prevent further damage to these thoroughfares.

COMFORT STATIONS.

City Council has acted wisely in deciding to no longer defer the installation of comfort stations at the city hall for the use of both sexes. Lack of this very necessary convenience, particularly for the use of strangers or transient visitors, has been little short of a reproach to a municipality which has aspired to the dignity of a city of the third-class.

The proposal to establish comfort stations has been brought to the attention of practically every councilmanic body for a number of years past. The necessity has been recognized but for some unaccountable reason—to which procrastination has been a contributing factor—nothing has been done.

This time members of City Council declare their intention of seeing the matter through, in which determination they will have the support and commendation of the public.

OLD FASHIONED REMEDIES.

Castor oil is castor oil, but they've banished senna tea.
And they've sugar coated now all the bitter things we took,
Mother used to brew for us from the family doctor book.
Now I tell that boy of mine when he starts to make a fuss,
He is lucky not to be taking what they gave to us.

Seems the kitchen stove back then always had a pan or two
Brewing up a remedy for the ailments which we knew.
Something mother said we'd need surely in a little while,
Senna tea for stomach ills and its brother camomile;
But I vow the worst of all remedies they gave to me
Was that gummy, sticky stuff known and served as flaxseed tea.

Boy, put down that little pill, take your powders and be glad
You're not getting what they gave when your father was a lad.
Mother's hand was gentle, but rough and hard it seemed to be
When she sat beside my bed rubbing goose-grease into me.
Getting well is easy now. Take your medicine and smile,
You are lucky that it's not senna tea or camomile.

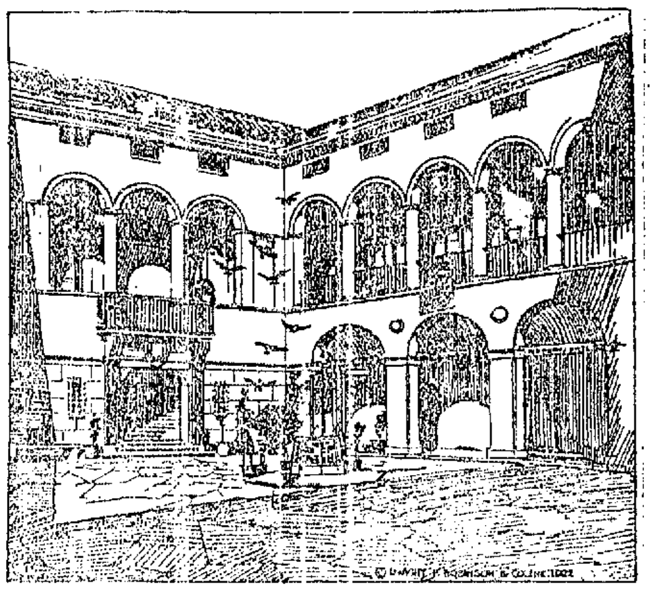
Provides Ambassador Permanent Home



© DWIGHT P. ROBINSON & CO. INC. 1922

Patio of United States Building at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition at Rio de Janeiro. It will serve later as the United States Embassy.

FUTURE ambassadors of the United States to Brazil will be more fortunate than most of their brothers in the diplomatic service through the construction by the United States Government of a $300,000 building at Rio de Janeiro which will be the permanent American embassy.

When the Brazilian Centennial Exposition opens its gates within view of the towering promontories of the harbor at Rio on Independence Day, September 7th, this building will contain the official American exhibits. After the close of the exposition, the building will be the home of American representatives to the South American republic. It will be one of the few embassy buildings actually owned by this country, the others being in the capitals of Siam, China, Japan, Salvador, Turkey, England, Cuba, Chile, Panama and Morocco.

Construction of the Brazilian embassy by Dwight P. Robinson & Company of New York, from plans of Frank L. Packard, a Columbus, Ohio, architect, is nearing completion. The architecture is in the Portuguese Colonial style, harmonizing with the Brazilian mode. A distinctive Latin spirit will attach to the patio or open court which the main walls of the building enclose. A tropical garden and fountain will be surrounded on all sides by a wide corridor or arched gallery. The walls of the patio will be treated in a soft buff Caen stone with the frieze and soffits of the overhanging cornices and the tile inserts of the walls in high color. The offices and reception rooms of the future embassy follow the Latin arrangement by opening on the corridor and gallery around the court.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

'A CONFLICT OF TWO WOMEN'S HONOR,' with Katharine MacDonald the popular First National star in the stellar role is the leading picture today and tomorrow at this theatre

The picture offers many angles for approval—the political background now made more than interesting by the recent elections the beauty of the famous star, and the really fine acting which Miss MacDonald offers in her interpretation of the role of Mary Gray daughter of a candidate for governor

In no other picture starring Miss MacDonald has that famous beauty had the chance for intense dramatic acting which is offered her in "The Woman's Side." Her emotional work is splendidly done and it is obvious that the star does not rely on her beauty to carry her through the suspense-laden situations which lead to a denouement

Miss MacDonald warms up to her part in a most commendable manner and wins the sympathy of the audience from the [illegible] drama until its climax [illegible] and directions [illegible]

The star is supported by an excellent cast in which appear [illegible] known artists Edward [illegible] Botelet Henry [illegible] Crittenden and [illegible] Dever [illegible]

Trilby and [illegible] will be seen in [illegible]

THE PARAMOUNT

"BURN 'EM UP BARNES" featuring Johnny Hines is the feature picture today and tomorrow

In "Burn 'Em Up Barnes" which was made during Johnny [illegible] he has the title role Playing opposite to him is Betty Carpenter remembered for her work with Constance Binney and Alice Brady and in Sunshine Comedies Next comes that well known stage star Edmond Breese and also there is that most amusing of all character actors George Fawcett J Barney Sherry plays the role of Barnes' father and Julia Swayne Gordon plays the role of mother Others in the cast include Matthew Betts Dorothy Leeds Harry Fraser and Richard Thorpe George A Leitinger for six years with the Griffith forces directed Ralph Spence the author of the sparkling subtitles in the William Fox picturization of Mark Twain's Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court has provided the subtitles for "Burn 'Em Up Barnes" which rival in sprightly humor and timeliness anything that author has done heretofore

THE ORPHEUM.

Anne Forrest is seen in the part of Perpetua and David Powell appears opposite her in the role of her adopted father the artist Brian Another important member of the cast is John Miltern a well known American actor [illegible] appeared in several George Fitzmaurice screen productions Mr Miltern role is that [illegible]

[illegible] this role and [illegible] Bruce Lawyer [illegible] De Wolf [illegible] short time [illegible] The [illegible] the circus [illegible] play [illegible] Wood [illegible] seen in [illegible] Vonseum and [illegible] role of [illegible] bareback rider [illegible] Willard [illegible] Volberque [illegible] part of [illegible] one of the scenes [illegible] Charlie Chaplin will be seen in "A Day's Pleasure" Thursday Friday and Saturday

Buck Johnson, the Lifer

By HUBERT RAY

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

"Buck" Johnson was at large. His absence from the penitentiary was discovered half an hour after the mail carrier had brought the evening mail. He had snapped his chain, climbed a fourteen-foot wall, broken through the stockade and made his getaway into the forest.

"Buck" Johnson was a lifer—a dangerous man. He stood six feet high and had a body like a barrel. He had been sent up five years before for killing another negro. He claimed the man had attacked his wife, but nobody cared anything about that; law had to be preserved. All the same, the warden always felt sorry for the pretty little mulatto woman who came periodically to see her husband. That was unusual for a negress. One would have expected her to have taken up with some one else long ago.

Perhaps it was because of the kid she sometimes brought with her. The child had been ailing of late, not expected to live, in fact, and Johnson had written a desperate, half-illiterate letter to the governor, begging to be allowed to go and see the child before it died. Of course no answer came. Who was going to trouble about a negro's letter? It was after that that Johnson became desperate. He attacked a guard in the turpentine convoy, and had to be chained. Now he had gone.

Of course he had struck for his home, twelve miles across the swamps. Negroes never had any sense; they were like foxes making for their earths. Bloodhounds were quickly upon the trail.

However, Johnson had had an hour's start, and he had a fair chance of making the distance before he was caught. That he would be caught, no one doubted. There was a posse of four armed guards with the warden, and they were instructed to shoot Buck Johnson if he showed fight.

Buck Johnson made his way straight as a bee toward his home. The country was a wilderness of pine and palmetto. Here and there were mangrove swamps, in which he sank waist high. He pushed through impenetrable undergrowth, heedless of the scratches and tears. He was caked with blood and mud, he looked hardly a human being. A desperate man, bent only on seeing his child before it died.

What remnant of decent feeling survived in Johnson's heart? How could a black man care about his child? the warden wondered as the hounds sniffed up the trail. It was hard to keep up with them, and it was not very long before the distant baying reached the fugitive.

Buck Johnson scrambled on. He looked now like a gigantic ape; all the clothing was torn away from the upper part of his body and he was panting like a bayed stag. Ever nearer came the sound of the bloodhounds.

He plunged into Big Swamp. He fought his way through an almost impenetrable bed of mud, struggling through it waist high. The warden and posse, knowing the trail he was taking, had left the hounds to follow, confident of picking him up by a circuit around the morass.

Johnson was just struggling out of the other end of the swamp when he saw the first hound dash upon the treacherous surface. Instantly it was gone. The edge of the lake ingulfed it and half the pursuers. Baffled, the hounds set up a melancholy howl. As Johnson reached the far end, he saw the warden and his men, not a quarter of a mile distant, through the trees.

The echo of a shout reached him; bullets began to fly. Buck Johnson fled like a deer. His right arm dropped to his side, paralyzed. A bullet nipped his cheek. Then he had evaded the pursuers and gone crashing through the palmetto tangles. And at last, as he topped a rise, he saw the tiny home settlement in the distance, and his cabin among the negro shacks that composed it.

He went more slowly, gasping, and giddy from his wound. At the top of the rise he saw his pursuers in the valley beneath. Another volley whined about him. He ran on—on, on, on, hidden for a few moments by the elevation behind him. This was his hut. He burst inside. There sat Lily, watching the child upon the bed. She rose up with a cry and flung her arms about his neck. Buck Johnson kneeled down.

"She's sleeping! The doctor says she'll live. The fever's gone!"

Buck Johnson heard that much, but he could not understand the rest of Lily's excited exclamations. He was kneeling down, staring into the child's face.

The warden stood in the doorway. Lily was waving a paper in front of him. "Listen! Listen!"

"Come, Buck!" said the warden.

Buck Johnson rose up, resigned.

"Eh, what's that?" cried the warden. "What? What? When did you get this?"

"This afternoon. See, it's a pardon! The governor's pardoned him!"

Buck heard it all vaguely. He did not understand why the rifles were grounded, why the warden was gripping his hand.

"It's all right, Buck! Come back tomorrow. Glad that's only a graze. Sorry we had to shoot him, ma'am. How's the kid? Fine! This is a big day for you, Buck! Come on, boys; leave them together. Guess black folks has their feelings, same as us!"

BULL PLUNGES INTO NITRO PIT; STARVES

Terrorized Workers Afraid to Haul Him Out Until He Is Dead.

A bull fell into a magazine of nitroglycerin in the Osage oil field of eastern Wyoming and starved to death before employees mustered up enough courage to haul out the body.

The magazine, owned by a torpedo company, was constructed in the side of a hill several years ago. A small cache was scooped out and the top covered with wood and corrugated iron roofing. This made the roof nearly on the same level as the ground itself. To protect the iron roof from heat it was covered with dirt several inches thick.

As in many oil regions, the Osage field is not fenced off according to leases, and in this field in particular the cattle and live stock roam peacefully among the oil derricks.

With the usual independent air which might go along with his office as chief bull in the herd, he slowly tripped across the roof to the magazine rather than go around it. The result—one Sultanic bull fell into the "soup." There he stuck. Despite all efforts the animal could not release himself.

Because of the danger of attempting to get him out there was nothing to do but allow him to starve to death. Everybody was afraid the bull might carelessly kick over a can of nitro in the efforts to release him from his prison, and this would spoil both the bull and the rescuer. There were about 350 quarts of the high explosive in the magazine and no operator or friend, much as he wanted to aid the animal, cared to mix bull and high explosive in such careless quantities. The animal starved to death in about fifteen days.

HOLDS DAREDEVIL RECORD

Ohio Youth Has Long String of Adventurous Experiences.

Clarence Myers, eighteen years old, of Elyria, O., has had a more adventurous experience than any other youth of his age in these parts.

When a mere lad he was sent to the state reformatory. Two years ago he shot a boy companion with a rifle. Three months ago his motorcycle collided with an auto, as a result of which the autoist took a vacation in a hospital.

Two months ago Clarence was scorched when a government mail plane lost in a fog, was wrecked while landing and was damaged by fire when the gasoline tank exploded.

Now Myers faces a charge of reckless driving. His motorcycle crashed into a bicycle. During the collision John Schoenfeldt, rider of the bicycle, sustained a fractured skull and was taken to Memorial hospital in a dying condition.

FOUND DOLLAR AT LAST

It Was Spent Years Ago and Came Back in Change.

A dollar spent twenty-seven years ago at Lancaster, Mo., returned to its original owner in Montesano, Wash., recently.

When Mrs. Torrence Hagerman was seven years of age her father gave her and her sister each a dollar coined in the years of their birth. Mrs. Hagerman's dollar was coined in 1887. The sisters carved each other's initials on the Goddess of Liberty's head on the dollars and the dollars were spent. Since then Mrs. Hagerman has been looking for her dollar.

She made some purchases here this week and a dollar she received as change was identified by the date, 1887, and her sister's initials, "I. P.," to be the dollar her father gave her twenty-seven years before.

Mrs. Hagerman says she will never spend the dollar again.

Paderewski Easily Disturbed.

Paderewski will not permit anybody to sit behind him. At some of his concerts hundreds of seats could have been added on the stage. Moreover, in every Paderewski recital no seats are sold in that part of the orchestra proper which is directly behind him. The piano is set at a forty-five degree angle, which means that in the extreme left corner of the orchestra, looking toward the stage, a number of seats are directly facing Paderewski's back. Those seats are empty for Paderewski. "If they are behind me, I think they are pushing my elbows," he says.

One night he complained: "Will you go down to that woman in the seventh row at the right? She is fanning. I do not mind if she fans in time. But if she cannot do that I cannot play."—C. D. Isaacson in Hearst's.

ROBINS HATCHED ON CAR

Mother Built Nest in a Dangerous Place and Cares for Them.

On the brake beams underneath the passenger coach which, with a locomotive, comprises the "Doodlebug," a shuttle train making three daily trips from the Railroad Young Men's Christian association in Elk Run, to Elkers, Pa., two miles distant on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad, is a robin's nest containing three small robins.

Mother Robin began building her nest in this precarious place some weeks ago. She started her construction work early in the morning, and when the train pulled out left the nest and flew with the train to Elkers. There the coach was placed on a siding until noon and in the interim the nest building was continued.

Human Flea.

"I reckon you had a right lively time in Kansas City?" insinuated an acquaintance.

"Tol'able," replied Gabe Gosnell of Grudge, "but nothin' like what I probably would have had if I wasn't considerably lively on my feet. You see, up in Kansas City, if you meet a respectable looking man anywhere after 4 o'clock in the afternoon anywhere the least bit off to one side he's a holdup and robs you.

"And if you meet one that don't look respectable he's a plainclothes policeman, and pounds you because he thinks you're a holdup. So I was practically on the keen jump all the time I was there, dodging one or the other."—Kansas City Star.

Ignition of Escaping Hydrogen.

There have been so many cases of spontaneous ignition of hydrogen gas when charging balloons that an investigation has been carried on to determine the cause. By observing in the dark a jet of hydrogen escaping through a pipe flange, it was found that a brush discharge of static electricity was plainly visible. When the pipe was tapped, to stir up the dust, an explosion occurred. From the investigation it would seem that the spontaneous ignition was due to the friction between the hydrogen and the dust of iron rust and to the brush discharge of static electricity from the electrified particles.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Woman of Poise,
once a rarity, is now to be observed and admired upon every hand. Indeed, no other woman can flourish long in the midst of this modern, complicated life. In the home, in business, in social life, the woman who is serene and confident wins, while the nervous, flustered individual wastes her talent and gets nowhere. Of course, poise is dependent mainly upon sound health and steady nerves. If you feel that you are being kept back in this way, why not turn to that great woman's remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was manufactured from a thorough understanding of the nervous system of women?—Advertisement.

Wherein We Discuss the Mode of Autumn

Sophistication Rules the Day

THE SUN of Flapperism sets. With the coming of Autumn 1922, Fashion enters a new era in which the abbreviated skirt and the disappearing waistline is forgotten. No longer need every woman, willy nilly, transform herself into a girl of Sweet Sixteen. Sophistication rules the day.

The modes are long line, svelte, luxurious—suggestive of calm Parisian nights—of lazy strolls along a Boulevard. Everything is graceful and many things are draped.

Consequently Milady will sally forth, a-shopping or to a Bridge, attired in gowns that are quite the loveliest and the most novel that she has cared to wear for many years.

The Grecian Influence

You'll find it everywhere. Designers seek their newest inspiration in the costumes of the Ancient Greeks—borrowing the loose flowing lines that lent such grace to the classic figure. But blending them with many, many a modern touch in the way of embroidery and ornament.

The result is a Mode as old as the hills—and as new as tomorrow—a mode you will love because it cannot help but increase your charm.

They're Longer!

Yes, skirts are longer! Not so long that they hamper freedom or a graceful carriage. But just long enough to give one's figure the slim, lithe outline of Youth.

Sometimes this length is merely a delusion—brought about by flowing panels that are longer than the skirt itself.

Draperies help heighten the effect. They may hang longer on one side than the other—or express themselves in a hundred other interesting ways.

And all are so placed, of course, that they increase this air of suave sophistication that is the new mode's chief delight.

Carefree Sleeves

No gown is more interesting than its sleeve—as we have learned in other seasons. So 1922 brings sleeves—some named, some nameless—in a variety that no man could catalogue but any woman can admire.

There are Bell sleeves, and Bishop sleeves and Mandarin sleeves. There are sleeves that come half way down an arm to fall away in cascades of silken splendor. There are sleeves that begin at the waist itself and end in a tight cuff about the wrist. And twenty other types beyond description!

Your neckline may be the one that becomes you most but the cool, open bateau style is still in high favor.

Crepes & Colors

Pebble faced Canton Crepe and Satin Canton are far and away the season's best materials. They lend themselves so readily to the draped effects in vogue and they are sturdy enough to add durability to their beauty.

Lace is good too. It appears in a dinner gown, draped over brown Canton at $19.75.

The season's colors will be navy and black—the ever—and all-becoming.

Fur Trimmed Coats

Never so warm, never so light, never so beautiful as they are this season! And never so economical—selling during the August Sale of Furs at $5 to $25 less per garment.

The materials are regal, plush-like fabrics, many of them new on Fashion's horizon—Bolivia, Panvelaine, Fashona, Oramadale by name. Trimmed with such luxurious furs as Caracul, Fox, Wolf and Beaver. And priced today upwards from $59.50.

Modes Tailored to Type—Not Merely "Sizes"

This is the great feature of Wright-Metzler apparel. When you come here you are not merely given a size 36—or whatever it may be. You are shown garments designed for women of your particular type—short slender, tall normal or whatever you require. The result is a satisfaction possible elsewhere only at great added expense, in custom tailored clothes.

Frock Prices Range, This Season, $25 to $69.50

VEGETATION AND SNOW ON MARS

Recent Observations Bear Out Theories of Lowell.

SEE CHANGES OF SEASONS

Planet Is Closer to Earth Now Than at Any Time in 18 Years—Seasons on Mars Have Same Significance as on Our Earth and Occur in Same Manner, but Are About Twice the Length of Ours—Hundreds of Photographs and Charts.

Members of the staff of Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., are elated over recent studies of the planet Mars which, they assert, bear out the theories of the late Percival Lowell, founder of the observatory, as to snowfalls and vegetation on the little red planet.

Mars, nearest neighbor of this world with the exception of Venus, is closer to the earth now than at any time in eighteen years. Observations have been in progress for the last five months each hour of every night that weather conditions would permit. Hundreds of photographs and charts have been made.

Seasons Longer Than Earth's.

The seasons on Mars have the same significance as on our earth and occur in the same manner, but are about twice the length of our own, according to Drs. E. C. and V. M. Slipher of the observatory staff. A statement by them on the results of the latest observations here follows:

"Winter has been occurring in the southern hemisphere of the planet Mars and the extensive dark areas there are now faint and have been so for some time, betokening the dead season of vegetation in conformity with the view held by Lowell regarding the seasonal changes on the planet.

"The large winter cap of white about the south pole of Mars, which for some months has appeared to consist of only mist or cloud covering the South polar regions of the planet down to latitude forty degrees, is now dissipating and disclosing a mantle of snow beneath. The spring season for the southern hemisphere is now approaching, the season there at present corresponding to our March 21, and these changes are characteristic of late winter over the south of Mars.

Autumn is Arriving.

"In the northern hemisphere autumn is arriving and the polar cap there has already become conspicuous, having increased rapidly during the last few Martian nights. On the night of June 17 it was observed that when the planet's longitude 20° came into Martian sunrise, and therefore visible to us, a vast area there had during the preceding night been covered by a bright canopy. This bright hood faded off toward the equator, but was discernible down nearly to fifty degrees north latitude and veiled the darker markings of the northern part of the planet.

"This event marked the first really big autumn storm in the northern hemisphere of Mars so far this year. On that date the Martian season corresponded to our September 18. Early indications of autumn made their appearance a month and a half ago at a Martian season corresponding to our late August. These observations have been recorded on photographs.

"These conditions and changes occurring in union with the planet's seasons indicate that conditions are more analogous to those of the earth than to any of the other planets."

DIAMOND FAD IN THE U. S.

Purchases by American Women Cause Scarcity in the Popular Sizes.

American women are buying more diamonds than ever before. The demand is increasing to such an extent that prices reveal a tendency to increase, and there is a scarcity in the more popular sizes.

So great has become the call recently that even the smaller and inferior stone supply has been visibly decreased.

News from overseas declares that, while mines in South Africa are operating slowly and the London diamond syndicate keeps a close fist on production and distribution, operations in the cutting establishment progress evenly.

Kitchen Distillers Cause City Floods.

Kitchen distillers are responsible for the flooding of many cellars in Ogdensburg, N. Y., according to city plumbing inspectors. Enough mash to fill a bushel basket was found in one city sewer. The mayor has issued orders for a thorough inspection of the entire sewer system of the city.

Latest Wife Gets Man's Insurance.

Lulu Belle Taylor, of Newark, N. J., the latest wife of the late Thomas B. Taylor, will receive $500 insurance left by him. Application for the insurance was made by three women, all asserting they had been married to Taylor.

Honey That Intoxicates.
